Dear Commission President von der Leyen,

We would like to take this opportunity to offer the full support of the financial services industry for the ambitious path on which you have set Europe. We are delighted to have a leader so committed to Europe and a team with such a wealth of experience at the helm of the European Commission as we look to the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead in the next five years. Under your leadership, we look forward to contributing to a stronger European Union. We are particularly encouraged by the ambitions you have set out to strengthen Europe’s leadership in the world and to promote Europe’s global competitiveness.

The European financial sector that we jointly represent is a cornerstone of the European economy. Our members are the primary source of financing for businesses and individuals, the managers of people’s savings and pensions, and the providers of protection against risks for people, businesses and economies.

Beyond this key role within Europe, our sector is also present beyond the European borders. The significant business presence of major European players outside the borders of the European Union, as well as our strong business relationships with foreign customers and partners, are clear evidence of this worldwide success. Nevertheless, over recent years and in certain parts of the financial sector, Europe has lost ground on the global stage. While the reasons for this are many and varied, we firmly believe that the significant talents, strengths and potential that the European financial sector has today can be key to us becoming more successful at a global level tomorrow.

We fully support your objectives of preserving and improving financial stability, protecting savers and investors, and ensuring flows of capital to where it is needed. A robust regulatory framework is vital for a trusted, healthy and well-functioning financial sector. Likewise, we wholeheartedly welcome your ambition to promote Europe’s competitiveness on the global stage. We believe that these goals are two sides of the same European policymaking coin.

We therefore call on you and your team:

- To explicitly include the global competitiveness of European businesses as a key objective in your Commission’s policymaking. Such an explicit recognition of Europe’s ambition to be a world leader would add weight and help orientate minds in the EU decision-making process.

- To give priority to ensuring an international level playing field, with a focus on eliminating the potential for regulatory arbitrage between Europe and other jurisdictions arising from significant divergences in regulatory and supervisory approaches, since this could create competitive disadvantages for Europe vis-à-vis other jurisdictions. In this context, equivalence frameworks should support and promote policymakers’ commitment to boost the attractiveness and competitiveness of EU financial markets in a global context so that they can better serve EU companies and investors.
To continue working with the European Parliament and Council to ensure compliance with the existing inter-institutional agreement on better law-making of 13 April 2016. When carrying out impact assessments, the comprehensive impact analysis should also be done with global competitiveness in mind.

To rigorously implement the “one in — one out” approach that you have proposed. The compliance burden and risks for the EU (financial services) industry increased considerably during the last Commission mandate, mainly due to EU texts being developed in “silos” and without recognising that at the point of sale multiple EU texts might apply at the same time, thus creating overload and duplication. This impacts global competitiveness considerably.

To acknowledge that a competitive and vibrant European financial services industry is a sine qua non for making the Capital Markets Union a reality.

In conclusion, EU financial services companies stand ready today to build on our existing strengths to truly put the EU on the world map. We look forward to continuing this dialogue with you and your team in the months and years to come.

Sincerely,
